New Names for Two Roads

Nuchatlaht Tribe is currently obtaining a license of occupation so that they can replace the main bridge into Oclucje Reserve. Part of this application required Nuchatlaht Tribe to name two roads. These two roads are the road that comes into Oclucje from the Zeballos Forest Service Road, and the road that goes towards our dock.

With help from Ron Hamilton and with Tye Ha'wiltch Walter Michael's blessings, the two roads were given the following names:

- 1) T'ashii-is
- 2) Waaykaash.

According to Ron the names mean the following:

1. T'ashii-is = The Way To
2. Waaykaash = Praise

T'ashii-is will be the name of the road coming in from the highway

Waaykaash will be the name of the road going towards the dock

T'ashii-is = The Way To

Waaykaash Sign = Praise

Wi-Fi Can Reach Everywhere in the Band Office

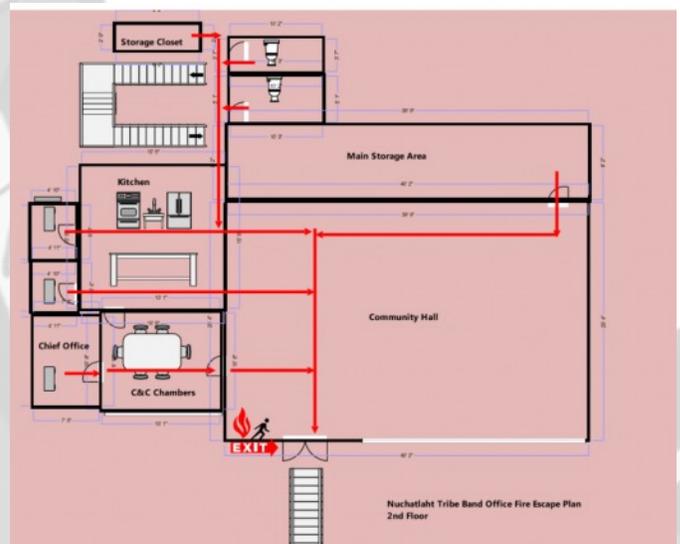

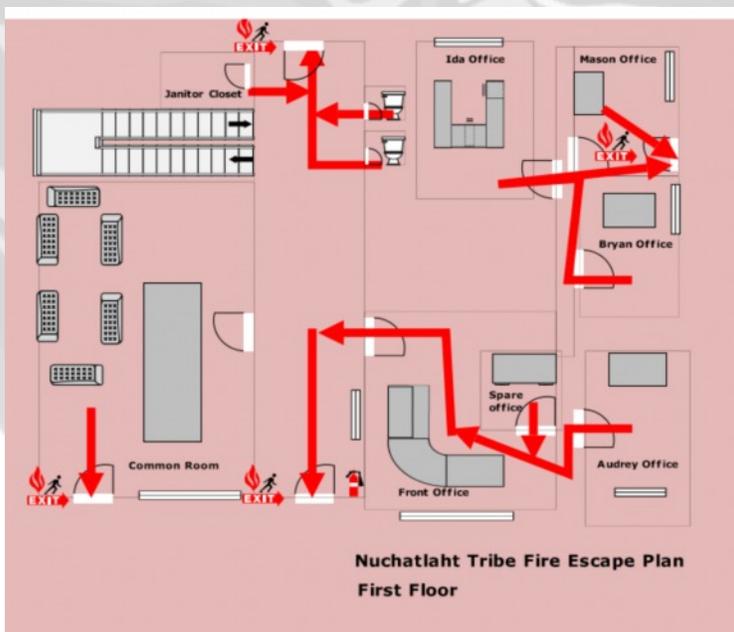

On September 6th, 2017, Nuchatlaht's wifi (internet) finally reached all parts of the band office. Previously, the Wi-Fi could barely reach Jordan's and Archie's office due to the weak Wi-Fi extender the band used. This couldn't be possible without the advancement in technology, and the help of our IT whiz, Bryan Michael. Now when visitors come to the band office, they will not have any connectivity issues. This is a small but great success that Nuchatlaht Tribe is proud of.

Fire Escape Plan Workshop

On September 27th, 2017, Nuchatlaht Tribe hosted a Fire Escape Plan workshop where participants learned about the importance of Fire Escape Plans and then created one for their household. After the workshop was done, the participants requested that further workshops be delivered on a quarterly (every 3 months) basis that focuses on the following topics:

1. Different types of fires and how to extinguish them out;
2. Prevention of household fires; and
3. Fire escape drills

This is important that Nuchatlaht Tribe continue to deliver these workshops as the Village of Zeballos is not legally obligated to extinguish fires for us; therefore, we need to have the tools to prevent and extinguish fires ourselves.

Here is the Fire escape plan that we created so that our guests have a better understanding of where to go when a fire occurs

This Labor Day a shrimp boil is a fun meal whether either for your household or guests. For this one pot meal, shrimp, sausage, potatoes and corn are boiled together for different amounts of time. Pour everything out into a serving platter or newspaper-lined table and dig in. Check out this video to see how it's done! Smarts: A classic shrimp boil uses both shrimp and sausage, but feel free to skip the sausage if you'd prefer.

Preparation

1. Shrimp - Defrost shrimp.
2. Onions / Sausage (if using) - Prep as directed. Store separately. (Can be done up to 5 days ahead)
3. Corn - Remove husks and use a sharp knife to slice into 4" / 10cm pieces. (no need to be exact, but the corn will fit more easily in the pot in pieces) (Can be done up to 2 days ahead)
4. Tomatoes / Lemons - Prep as directed.

Make

1. Fill a large stockpot with water. Season generously with salt and add first part of Old Bay. Squeeze juice from lemons into water and then drop lemon rinds into water. Bring to a boil.
2. While water is coming to a boil, slice potatoes in half. Leave peels on the shrimp but slice the shrimp down the back and remove veins (this may have already been done by the fishmonger).
3. When water is boiling, add potatoes and onions. Boil for 10 minutes, until potatoes are starting to turn tender.
4. While potatoes are boiling, in a large mixing bowl whisk together honey, vinegar and olive oil. Add mixed greens and tomatoes to dressing. Wait to toss until right before serving.
5. Return to shrimp boil and add corn and sausage (if using) to potatoes and continue to boil until corn is tender, 7 to 8 minutes more.
6. Add shrimp and continue cooking until shrimp is opaque, 2 to 3 minutes more.
7. Drain shrimp boil and transfer to a large serving platter.
8. Melt butter in the microwave and stir in second part of Old Bay. Drizzle butter over shrimp boil.
9. Toss salad. Serve shrimp boil with dipping sauces of choice and salad on the side. Enjoy!
